

ABSTRACT

The present invention is directed to a method for diagnosing a subject as being or having a predisposition to being asthmatic. The present invention is also directed to methods of detecting whether a subject may be atopic by screening for genetic risk factors.